

DERONDA DUBOSE

Deronda Dubose has over 22 years of Law Enforcement experience. She is a Supervisory Special Agent with the United States Secret Service. Dubose currently manages the Los Angeles Secret Service Cyber Fraud Task Force. The Task Force consists of over 60 local, state, and federal agencies. The Task Force is a Regional Cyber Center supporting thousands of law enforcement personnel throughout the Western Region of the United States of America. Dubose leads a diverse group of private and public partnerships to promote national security and prevent global crime.

Dubose's expertise includes Operational Leadership, Investigations, Law Enforcement, Physical Protection, Executive Protection, Financial Protection, Training, Mentorship, Budget Management, Outreach, Risk Assessments, and Cybersecurity. Dubose has managed high performing teams for hundreds of complex criminal investigations to secure federal and local convictions.

Throughout her career, she has led various cross functional, multiagency teams in the execution of security plans to protect the President, Vice President, Former Presidents, and World Leaders both domestically and globally.

In addition, Dubose continuously oversees and develops the full scope of security teams, logistics, plans, and operations for multiple National Special Security Events, to include the Summit of Americas, US Nuclear Summit, G8 Summits abroad, US Climate Summit, multiple Candidate Nominee Operations, and over 15 United Nation General Assemblies. Each Event operations includes the physical security, security of hospitals, airports, sports arenas, hotels, schools, secured facilities, transportation management, resource allocation, and requires thousands of security personnel with hundreds of participating countries from around the world.

Dubose has developed and presented instructional training for thousands of domestic and foreign law enforcement personnel, academia, and private entities on investigative techniques, Use of Force, proper handling of evidence, digital forensics, crime preventative methodology, DEI, and emerging technologies. Her primary mission is to ensure a safe environment by partnering with the community, other law enforcement agencies, and academia. Dubose motto is, "leave the world a little better than you found it."

Since 2008, Dubose has been an adjunct professor with the University of Phoenix. She's instructed over 60 courses covering Physical Protection, Executive Protection, Cybercrimes, Ethics, Emergency Preparedness, and Criminal Justice. Prior to her position with the Secret Service, Dubose worked for the private sector in various leadership roles for over 12 years.

Dubose is a Compton, California Native and holds a bachelor's degree in business from Loyola Marymount University, a Master of Business Administration Degree, MBA, from University of Phoenix and several professional certificates in various disciplines. She has received many prestigious awards for her service. Dubose is a member of the Women in Federal Law Enforcement, International Law Enforcement Academy, National Organization of Black Law Enforcement, etc.